

A service that makes the job hunt fun again. Confetti organizes group trips for design students, making it easier and cheaper to check out several companies at once with friends.

How it works

Students and Prospective Employees

Choose which companies you want to visit and set the dates you're free to travel. Get friends to join your "conference" and let Confetti find group rates on flights and hotels to reduce travel costs.

The more friends you have going on your field trip, the more likely it is that your companies of choice will cover travel expenses.

Whether you're looking for a job or not, this is a chance to meet people in industry, get to know what it's like to work as a professional designer, and go on a fun field trip with your friends!

Participating Companies

Choose which groups to host and share the costs of travel amongst other participating companies.

Here's your chance to show off the work environment and company culture, introduce prospectives to their future team members, and host a night out to show off the city.

Whether you're hiring or not, this is a chance to interview top design students and forge meaningful relationships with design schools around the world.

Why you'll love it

Confetti was designed for designers, by designers, in response to specific unmet needs with regard to the job search experience.

For more information, visit:
www.pinkservicedesign.com/confluenceog